1. The Office of New Student Programs is currently looking for eager students to help welcome a new class of Wolverines and their family members to our community. They are hiring Orientation Leaders for this summer, a wonderful opportunity to grow your professional skills, meet other students across disciplines, and make a difference on campus. This role pays $17 an hour, comes with University of Michigan apparel, provided meals during shifts, and training (Orientation Leadership Institute) that will help develop professional and leadership skills to support future career paths.

Work Schedule

If selected to be an orientation leader, you will be expected to work in Ann Arbor from January to early September.

January-June: Paid training and meetings to develop your skills and prepare you for leading students and families during on-campus orientation activities (about three hours per week).

June-early September: Facilitate small groups, campus tours, and large/small scale programs throughout orientation (about 40 hours per week, with opportunities for overtime). Applications are due by Dec. 14. Learn More &
